WE NOMINATE

Colin Stephenson Pittendrigh, one of this country's most articulate men of science and a newly elected member of the National Academy of Sciences, whose thoughtful observations about basic scientific problems, ranging from the "race into space" to his own researches on what are known as "living clocks," command wide attention. This past week, speaking in Washington as an individual rather than as a consultant to the United States space program, the 41-year-old biologist made an unusual plea which underscores the scientist's abiding concern for new knowledge as opposed to his interest in political considerations, or "factors of international prestige."

Before the star-spangled National Academy, the English-born Pittendrigh, a naturalized American citizen since 1950, urged President Kennedy not to allow the demands of the "prestige race" to minimize the provisions for the "sterilization" of manned vehicles to be sent to the moon. It was his contention that the contamination of the planet Mars by earth-nurtured, man-borne germs "could destroy for all time any chances of finding out if life had evolved elsewhere" and that it would be in the world's interest to share with the Soviet Union American research on decontamination procedures.

Over the past several years Pittendrigh, an authority on "living clocks," those innate physiological rhythms occurring within all living organisms except bacteria, has opened new horizons for laymen in matters of space. Noting that "the biologist is not yet in a position even to inform the engineer which features of our environment must be simulated to make it possible for man to live in outer space," he suggested in 1960 that simulated periods of night and day may have to be built into any manned space ship so that internal bodily rhythms, regulated in part by periodic signals such as the light cycle, might not be upset.

In his concentration on the general question, "what are the 'living clocks' by which so many species operate, and what makes them tick?," Pittendrigh, a Princetonian since 1948, has worked primarily with clams, insects and laboratory animals and has won the support of major organizations, including the National Science Foundation and the cancer-oriented Lannie E. Ripple Foundation. He has been able to show, among other phenomena, that the response of these hidden rhythms to the earth's cyclical, constantly changing relation to the sun enables them to measure time for animals and to serve as navigational aids for insects and birds.

A graduate of the University of Durham, Pittendrigh, a past president of the Rocky Mountain Biological Laboratory and active in a dozen scientific societies, earned the degree of Associate in Trinidad's Imperial College of Tropical Agriculture. For a period of three years, 1942-1945, he was based in the jungles of Trinidad and as a biologist at the Malaria Research Station, jointly operated by the Rockefeller Foundation and government agencies, was responsible for developing a method of control for Bromeliad-Malaria, a vicious type transmitted by a species of mosquito that breeds in tree-top Bromeliad plants.

For his insistence that it is the task of science to make clear what he has called "dirty, murky, confused situations"; for recalling through his pioneering researches Hamlet's classic exclamation, "What a piece of work is a man!"; for his efforts in bridging the gap between the diverging cultures of the sciences and the arts; he is TOWN TOPICS' nominee as

This Is PRINCETON

WELCOME, WET

Rain Breaks Spell. It's been dry, mighty dry. The memories of old-timers and the statistics of the modern weathermen came out the same this last week of April—it was the driest April on record for this area.

Only one inch of rain fell in Princeton, according to Princeton's weatherman, David Lindlum of Science Associates. The Stony Brook-Millstone Watersheds Association with headquarters between Hopewell and Pennington, reported 27 inches, which proves that Hopewell has an even drier climate than Princeton.

The gentle, drought-breaking rain that began Monday midnight produced .72 inches in Princeton. It came from some grudging Gulf of Mexico moisture that slowly and balkingly worked its way toward New Jersey, stopping off in Pittsburgh and Washington before it finally arrived.

Why the drought? The weather system just got stuck, in Mr. Lindlum's words. Dry winds out of the west and northwest kept that Gulf weather far away, and there were no easterly winds to bring on Monday morning, about 18 hours before the rain began, the Atlantic moisture in from the ocean.

A Good Rain. "It was the best possible kind of rain to break a drought," observed Malcolm Crooks, of the Watershed Association. "A good ground-soaked rain when we needed it most."

Mr. Crooks says that the area has a four-inch deficiency in water, with only a scant half inch of rain since the frost went out of the ground right after the middle of March. The last sizeable precipitation before this week was 3.6 inches that fell between March 20 and 21, Mr. Crooks said.

Tuesday's rain was crucial, of course, because this is the beginning of the growing season and newly-planted seedlings must have water to survive. Field crops need the moisture, too, but as Mr. Crooks pointed out, the only crop that has been sown so far is oats, with corn still to go into the ground.

"I've never had to irrigate any of my new trees until this year," said Clarence H. Steelman, nurseryman, of Quaker Bridge Road. "My apples, pears, cherries — all had to be irrigated. It's the driest April I can ever recall, and especially bad for farmers because it came after that killing cold winter."

Mr. Steelman also reports strawberry damage from frost on Monday morning, about 18 hours before the rain began.

Water O.K. For the city-dweller in the Princeton megalopolis, the drought meant that newly seeded lawns had to be sprinkled regularly and often. With recollections of last May in mind, many Princetonians wondered whether water-pressure could be maintained, but there was little difficulty, according to Fred Klink, assistant secretary of the Princeton Water Company.

A contractor's crew put up the bill on Route 206 dared up again, and homes between Mansgrove and Arreton Road found themselves without water last Saturday and Sunday. Some of these houses have water-storage tanks to tide them over various pressure troubles, but even these tanks ran dry.

On Saturday and Monday, the water company pumped 3½ million gallons a day each day, according to Mr. Klink. The normal pumping load is 2.6, so the drought pumped about a million additional gallons out of the wells and reservoirs.

In some ways the drought is not over yet, Mr. Crooks says. The underground water table must be replenished. Fish and plant life in streams must work back to normal and forests and fields must be really soaked before the danger of fire is completely past.

Mr. Lindlum is optimistic about all this — or pessimistic depending on whether one is a gardener or a golfer.

"We'll probably have a very

Round-Up

Miss Fine's School, bastion of female gentility and graceful scholarship, suffered an acute diminution of vitreous materials last weekend . . . Twenty windows were smashed in some sort of display of petulance . . . Meanwhile, across the street, the jokers who had made off with the university's ceremonial mace on April 21 tired of their schoolboy prank, returned mace and case by placing them on the front porch of President Gahren's home, then courageously phoned "Prospect" Saturday at 4 10 a m to tell of their return . . . Also phoned The Daily Princetonian and muddled something about "picture possibilities," hung up.

Quite evidently and rightly nettled by the all-thumbs attempt of the Johnson Irregulars to establish a bridgehead at 75 Cleveland Lane on the early morning of February 8 last in the hope of getting divorce evidence, the outgoing Mercer Grand Jury this week called for mandatory training and licensing of all private detectives . . . The jury damned "such incursions into the homes of our citizenry" as "at best, dirty business, and at worst, fraught with peril to those involved and the public"

A new 23-member panel, which will serve through August, was sworn in yesterday. Three Princetonians are included Roger D Sullivan, 288 Jefferson Road; Edward H Lackett, 298 Nassau Street, Kenneth L. O'Brien, 299 Shady Brook Lane

Field fire in Monday could have been bad . . . General alarums and excursions at 10.30 a.m. to property on Cherry Hill Road . . . Man had left power mower running, heat from exhaust had set grass afire, fire had jumped to brush in adjacent woodland.

About 1 5 acres were burned over, but flames not intense enough to ignite trees. . . . Police said it was just luck that the wind was not strong at the time

Saturday at about 2 20 a m two dungareed young men hopped a window in Consin liquor store, grabbed a heaver of jugs and took off into the night . . . The haul a gallon of vodka, a bottling of Chateau Latour '53 (great year), two monumental hangovers.

Unfortunate similarity in sounds led a few radio-listening Princetonians to an erroneous conclusion last Friday . . . Rumor spread wildly. . . . News of a fatal auto crash was broadcast. Accident happened in Bridgeton, but local listeners understandably thought the announcer said, "Princeton" . . . The same mistake has happened in the past and will probably occur in the future unless announcers see fit to take the caramels out of their mouths while they are on the air . . . Or maybe s-p-e-l-l the word

Model T Fords (and their successors, are the feature of a business report (page 18) on a Princeton firm which outgrew its original home . . . gasoline tanks creating problems for Nassau Street are the subject of a story in Topics of the Town, as are a quarter-million dollar gift to the Princeton Day School and the first headmistress (picture page 16) for Stuart Country Day

Details of a proposed golf and tennis club in the Bedens Brook area, one of the largest community undertakings in several years, heads the sports section (pages 28-31) . . . May is one of the year's busiest months in McCarter, with advance reports of concerts and plays in the music and theatre sections, plus a review of the Savoyards' offering, "Yeoman of the Guard"

Special buys in many lines are offered throughout the 48 pages . . . for unusual saving and a change in ownership, in a store specializing in appliances, see the centerspread pages 24 and 25 wet May," he said "We're now in a change in the weather cycle — these things usually go in six-week cycles—and I think May is bound to be cool and rainy." He paused thoughtfully. "April was just about the best weather I can recall for outdoor activity, but I'm afraid we'll have to pay for it with a wet, cold May."

JUVENILES SENTENCED

After Bramwell Incident. The five juveniles who were principally responsible for the damage and injuries inflicted at the home of Mr. and Mrs Gerald Bramwell of 77 Bayard Lane on March 30 face probation, a curfew and an order to pay $162.

The sentences handed down by Juvenile Referee Howard W. Stepp were accompanied by a warning that far stiffer penalties will result from any repetition of "party crashing" or "house breaking." At the same time, Mr. Stepp, whose full-time occupation is serving as Registrar of Princeton University, indicated that parental supervision of teen-age parties is not always adequate. He took strong exception to serving alcoholic beverages to minors, pointing out that it is illegal even in private residences.

The "ring leader" of the gang which invaded the Bramwell home, where a party for young people was in progress, was given a hearing before Judge Noden in Trenton. His sentence: two years probation; two years in Annandale Reformatory, suspended contingent upon good behavior.

The other four who were in varying degrees responsible for property damage and for injury to two of the young people at the Bramwell party were placed on indefinite probation and on a 9 p.m. curfew. They also must meet bills totalling $162 for damaged property.

"Community Is Aroused." Declaring that "the viciousness evident in this instance is almost unbelievable," Mr Stepp found "the entire community aroused and alarmed, as it should be." He promised protection through Borough and Township Police, particularly Sgt. James Kopliner and Patrolman Walter Emann, the juvenile officers in the two municipalities who serve under his guidance.

Mr. Stepp warned future offenders that Sgt. Kopliner and Patrolman Emann have been instructed to take them direct to Trenton for confinement and subsequent trial in the County Court. "This," he commented, "is not a threat, it is a statement of fact."

He also pointed out that "the police and I have a responsiblity to protect juveniles from the irresponsible acts of adults." He mentioned the serving of alcholic beverages at teen-age parties, and inadequate parental supervision, although saying that this was not the case at the Bramwell home.

Serving liquor to juveniles Mr. Stepp declared, "is iniquitous and dangerous, and must be stopped. I have asked the police to investigate future complaints with a view to preferring charges."

You've got to hand it to the British. They don't know the meaning of "quit while you're ahead." In this one superbly-fitted automobile are all manner of things to get a competitor's goat—here and abroad.

It represents the first known combination of sports car cornering and limousine ride. It has a sports car engine, sports car brakes, sports car steering and a suspension system LOOK Magazine says, "startled automobile men as . . . how best to make the springing of front and rear wheels work together instead of separately . . . the car moves vertically and as a unit, with no seesawing or pitching."

Wonder is how a car so compact can carry so many in such incredible comfort. Five full-size Texans, we've found. A tough, competition-proved racing car engine mounted crosswise saves feet of space. So does putting the wheels at the extreme corners of the body. Front wheel drive gives the action that gives snow plows their traction . . . uphills, through drifts . . . sharpens cornering on any road.

tions of the Board of Education Fred Tenney, 168 Hickory Court, asked why the Riverside slice of the bond issue is $475,000 when, in 1958, voters were told that it would cost only $355,000 to enlarge both Riverside and Johnson Park.

Board chairman Richard Pearson reminded Mr. Tenney that 1958 estimates for the original Johnson-Riverside construction had been far below what bids turned out to be, that current addition plans call for enclosing the Riverside play area and adding showers, that a small contract such as the current one is expensive, and that construction costs have mounted since 1958.

No action was required of the Board Tuesday night. The hearing was merely to answer any questions in the public mind.

NEW BUILDING APPROVED

For Princeton Hospital. The Borough Zoning Board last week approved Princeton Hospital's requests for front, side, and rear yard and height variances to permit proposed additions to the hospital service areas and construction, over the next 10 to 15 years, of the "J" building unit.

Because of the major changes projected and because of the residential classification of the area in which the hospital is located, the institution's request and the Zoning Board's approval of them will be transmitted to Mayor and Borough Council for action.

Reasons for the hospital's necessary and potentially maximum expansion were presented by George W. Conover, chairman of the board of trustees, John W. Kauffman, hospital administrator; Dr. David J. Rose, vice president of the medical staff, and Clifford Wolfe, head of the planning department of York and Sawyer, hospital architects.

At the conclusion of the testimony, "warm and unanimous endorsement of the hospital's plans" was given by the Princeton Chamber of Commerce board of directors, which was represented for that purpose by Dan D. Coyle.

Other business to come before the Zoning Board included:

- Request for a side-yard variance by Robert E. Dougherty for a one-story home proposed for the property at 53 Harrison Street. The board postponed decision until further investigation could be made.
- Requests by Princeton University to construct a wing on the southwest corner of Guyot Hall and to make certain additions to the art and archeology building, McCormick Hall. These requests were referred to the Borough Planning Board for initial action.

CLEAN UP!

From Attic to Yard. Householders who dust off the broom and rake for Clean-up Week, starting Monday, may be thinking chiefly of a neater house and yard, but Fire Chief Samuel G. Davison has fire safety on his mind.

"Clean up our homes and we will cut the number of dangerous, killing fires," stated Chief Davison. "Our goal for Spring Clean-up is to make every home in this community safe from fire."

Both Borough and Township will send the trucks around to pick up yard and house debris. The rule-of-hand in both municipalities is: "We'll take whatever one man can lift alone." This means no refrigerators, piano skeletons or sprung sofas, but it does mean broken kitchen tables and old high-chairs.

Borough: The regular garbage collection schedule will be followed. Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday for homes west of Witherspoon; Monday, Wednesday, Friday for homes east of Witherspoon.

Township: Trucks will roam the Township every day, Monday through Friday, without schedule. Loose debris, including yard rubbish, must be piled in containers that one

This drought is done.

From March 20 to April 30 — 50 days and less than half an inch of rain. By any form of measurement, that's a real drought.

Tuesday's downfall was helpful, but more is needed and more is not immediately in sight. Temperatures will continue below normal, and as May grows older, rainfall will become more frequent. Nature has a way of evening up.

ENTER LAMB CHOPS

Livestock in "Gypsy!" Among the prime cuts of meat on view in the forthcoming P.J.&B. production of "Gypsy!," due shortly in McCarter Theatre, will be a real, live lamb. Press agents tell us that this is the first, repeat, first lamb ever to appear on the McCarter stage.

He will make his entrance sometime during the proceedings this Thursday, Friday and Saturday, when the musical will be presented in McCarter. Curtain time on opening night is 7.30. Friday and Saturday night performances will start at 8.30 and the Saturday matinee at the traditional 2.30.

In addition to the lamb, there is a small black dog somewhere in "Gypsy!". He's live, too. Milton Lyon is in charge of directing these and other members of the cast in the bounding musical about the early years of the burlesque queen, Gypsy Rose Lee.

Rose, mother of the stripper, will be played by Wyn Hinman. She is responsible for such popular songs as "Small World," "Everything's Coming Up Roses" and "You'll Never Get Away from Me." Betty Fussell and Fred Sheldon will join her in singing "Together."

Camera fans might as well be warned that there is no over-exposure in "Gypsy!" It is a musical ABOUT burlesque.

THE LAST LAUGH

In Players' Series. Community Players will bring to a close its 1962-63 series of contemporary comedies with Anouilh's lighthearted farce, "Thieves' Carnival." Performances are scheduled for three weekends in June, including Reunion Weekend.

This Sunday at 8:30 p.m. in Murray Theatre, the Players will hold open house for all those interested in community theatre. Refreshments will be served and applications for membership will be liberally distributed.

Tryouts for the Anouilh comedy will be held Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday at 8:30 in Murray Theatre, and all are invited to apply for a part.

According to Garrison Ellis, president of Community Players, there is a wide range of parts to be cast. Mr. Ellis is particularly eager to find a competent player, male, on flute, oboe, clarinet or recorder.

Esther Usiskin, experienced as a director for little theatre groups, will serve as director for "Thieves' Carnival." She guided the destinies of last year's "The Country Wife."

ARTS FESTIVAL SET

For Talented Teens. Musicians, actors and dancers, drawn from 14 secondary schools, will take over McCarter Theatre next Wednesday and Thursday. The second annual High School Festival of the Perfoming Arts is sponsored by Princeton University and the New Jersey Department of Education.

Professor Alan Downer, chairman of the McCarter theatre faculty committee, will serve as host at the Festival.

The programs will begin at 2 on both afternoons. Admission is free.

"THREE ANGELS" NEXT

At Pennington Playhouse. The Pennington Players are in rehearsal for their spring production, the comedy "My Three Angels."

Jose Gonzalez, who appeared in the lead last fall in "Touch of the Poet, is directing. Now a landscape designer, Mr. Gonzalez studied at the Yale Drama School and at the American Theatre Wing. He directed summer stock productions at Buck Hill Falls for four years and has made many

As you may have read, we are going back on a 7 days a week schedule, and our second Sun.-Tues. program this spring is BLUE MURDER AT ST. TRINIAN'S which chronicles some high jinks at a fashionable girl's school. Alaister Sim plays the Headmistress, which will give you some idea whether this type of humor is for you. Terry Thomas and Joyce Grenfell compound the mayhem. On the same program is a Simenon, THE SNOW WAS BLACK, about a man who grew up in what the press book calls a house of questionable repute. What they really mean is a house of unquestionable disrepute. On Sunday May 5, BLUE MURDER at 7 and 10:30, SNOW WAS BLACK at 8.35 only. Mon and Tues., May 6 and 7, at 8.30, BLUE MURDER first.

"YEOMEN" IN PRINCETON

Savoyards Produce G. & S. It has always seemed appropriate that the Savoyards stage their annual Gilbert and Sullivan production in the spring when everything is as fresh and new and full of sunshine as the words and music themselves.

This year, it is "Yeomen of the Guard," presented last weekend in McCarter by the Savoyards, a group formed around an undergraduate nucleus and including in cast and chorus, members of the Princeton community and singers from Westminster Choir College.

The report this year is made with sincere regret. "Yeomen" is just too much for the semi-professional status of its cast and the limited time available for rehearsal. It is a pleasure ti look at—the 16th century set, with the crisp browns and greys of half-timber and stone provide a clean contrast to the brightness of some really fine costumes, especially those red, red, Beefeaters, but aurally, "Yeomen" is something else.

For those who are not familiar this rarely-heard G. & S. work, we will skirt the edges of its grand-opera plot. A certain Fairfax is scheduled to have his head cut off for dealing with the Devil, a trumped-up charge brought against him by a cousin who will inherit the estate if Fairfax dies without a wife.

Revenge Is Plotted. Fairfax decides that charity and revenge can be combined, and he marries, the day before he is due to die, a poor strolling singer who will inherit his money and cause the scheming cousin to fall flat on his face.

A jester, Jack Point, is in love with the singer, and feels somewhat rueful about this marriage, even though it is obviously a brief one in name only. Well, of course, Fairfax escapes and is not beheaded at all, and the concentric circles of the plot go out from there.

It is a serious story, compared to much of Gilbert and Sullivan, and it has some complex music to go with it. Part of the trouble in this "Yeomen" production does indeed come from the music, which has much more texture and complexity than the usual Sullivan score; in fact, Sullivan thought it was the best thing he wrote during all the years of his partnership with Gilbert.

This is just another way of saying that it's not like putting on "Pinafore" with jiggly tunes you've known all your life. Some of the leading singers are certainly capable of handling the music—Deborah Truxal, who plays Elsie, is headed for a career in opera and Viola Ponisi who plays Phoebe has been in many G. & S. productions — but there are not enough singers of this calibre.

Some Good Moments. Once in a while, everything clicks and there is some real delight. "I Have a Song to Sing, O" with Elsie and Jack Point, played by John Clum is one such moment, and the quartet sung by Elsie, Dame Caruthers (played by Mary Alice Witte), Sgt. Meryll (played by William Guthrie) and Fairfax is another. Here is a genuine blending of good voices who know what they are about.

But there is trouble elsewhere on the line. Singers, chorus and orchestra have difficulty keeping together and some of the singers who are not professionally trained simply cannot project their voices into the caverns of McCarter. John Clum, for example, is a tall and handsome jester, and he has been directed to keep his patter songs paced so that the words can be understood. But he does not have the voice to project those words to the audience, so that most of them are lost on the way.

We are told that this is the first Savoyards production to be directed by an undergraduate, and possibly this is where we should look for the core of the trouble. Paul De Prez has some Gilbert and Sullivan direction to his credit, according to the program, but not quite enough experience. The audience, sitting through this "Yeomen" feels an irresistible tug to jump up there on the stage and pull it all together in a good, taut weave, to get those crowd scenes mobile and clean, to line up everybody on the same beat and to clear away all the unnecessary bits of business. Well, next year's another spring . . .

THE GARDENS OF SPAIN

On the Jersey Plain. The excitements of Spanish and Moorish art have been appearing more and more in home decoration, and they seem to have found their most harmonious exposition in that old American favorite, wrought-iron summer furniture.

Stopping at Nassau Interiors the other day, we thought for a moment we were in the Alhambra, except that there wasn't any splashing fountain. We found Woodard's lyrical dining chair with shoulder-height back done in a filigree that reminded us of a Spanish lady's lace mantilla. The gold-orange print on the seat cushion is a vibrating note.

Less dashing, but still ornamental is another wrought iron chair featuring a series of open curves on its back. Then, there's one with just five slim spindles and a ticking cushion (This one never got to Spain.)

Many of the tables matching these fine chairs are topped with a rippled, translucent glass that looks like a pool of water after you've thrown in a scattering of pebbles. The top surface is glass-smooth to the touch, but ever so slightly rippled. The under surface is roughly frosted. We liked it especially on a delicious little round table just made for two people who want to sip sodas. (The chairs with this table, incidentally, are Greek in feeling, with legs that are the ends of an arc.)

Some wrought-iron at Nassau Interiors leaves the Spanish for the modern, and turns up as a basketweave basket chair that is very comfortable indeed. Of course, if your shorts are very short, you will have basketweave on your suntan, but that's not so waffle.

Included in this openwork line is a 48-inch umbrella table, a larger model than other summers have offered. You may have coffee table, serving cart, captain's style chairs, little end tables, all in the matching openwork design.

Woodard also presents a sectional sofa with three simple pieces — an armless center chair and two outside armchairs, upholstered in a sunny yellow and orange print.

We mention these various prints, and we speak of "wrought-iron" furniture because the wealth of variety and detail in color and fabric is too much for description. You may choose from prints and solids in the fabrics and various colors in the wrought-iron, and if the display at Nassau Interiors isn't enough for you there is the Woodard showroom in New York which you can visit, as Nassau Interiors' guest.

Incidentally, Woodard has a Drain-dri vinyl covering for cushions which sheds rainwater and lets in the air to dry out the foam after a shower.

Meadowcraft and Gallo are other summer lines at Nassau Interiors, too, as you probably know.

DIPLOMAS IN WHITE

Dresses, Cum Laude. White cotton is the word this year in graduation dresses for pre-teens and juniors. We have it right from the principal's office in the Princess Shop on Palmer Square.

Prices for pre-teens begin at $16.50, for juniors at $18.50. Pique, with a softly pleated skirt, has a cotton lace insert that makes an A from waist point to hem, opening out on top to make a V insert in the bodice and ending with a square neckline.

A very plain, terribly grown-up pique has a boat neck, gently folded skirt and cap sleeve. That's all. A straight skirt has a boat-neck top and no sleeves, but there is a pop-over which can be worn during Pomp and Circumstance and removed for the Graduation Dance.

Juniors can wear the sheath skirt with a jacket that has self buttons, front and back. A dotted Swiss, which will make a mother melt and say "My little girl!" has a gathered skirt and a yellow velvet ribbon insertion which can be removed if the occasion demands all-white.

Among the graduation dresses are several with artfully pleated skirts designed for lumpy hips and thighs. They are not fulsome, like a gathered skirts, not painfully revealing like a sheath. They are just, flatteringly, right.

After the ball is over, she could wear any of the pink and white Pettl collection of

Off to New Jersey

Having explored the little rivers of New Jersey last summer in a flat-bottom armchair, we are about to take off in 1963 on a tour of the state's forgotten towns.

This all came about because we visited the Country Mouse one day not long ago and found "Forgotten Towns of Southern New Jersey" by Henry Charlton Beck in one of those fascinating Rutgers paperbacks for $1.95. We found out about towns we hadn't known enough about to forget, which gives you an idea of the research Mr. Beck put into this book. Besides, it has 56 illustrations.

Then, there's "The Old Farm," Andrew D. Mellick's editing of the diary kept by an 18th century Jersey farmer, and this one's even pleasanter to read because it doesn't entice you out of that armchair to follow some forgotten pine-barren road.

"Exploring the Little Rivers of New Jersey?" Still in print.

"Echoes of Paris" is set to the music "Les Biches" written in 1924 by Francis Poulenc. In the setting of a Paris park, children play at games and at war, lovers quarrel and meet again, the night falls and the statues of the queens of France come to life. Allan McClain, a Princeton senior, will take the role of a wounded French soldier who returns home.

As a choreographer, Miss Gibbons has composed the dances in "Love and Mischief" set to Mozart's "Kleinenach musik," "Ballet in Latin" to Prokofiev's "Classical Symphony," and "The Forest" to Meyerbeer waltzes — all of which have been presented to Princeton audiences.

Miss Gibbons was born in Paris and trained as a dancer by Leo Staats, maitre of ballet of the Paris Opera and Vaslav Veltchek of the Chatelet Theatre. She has toured Europe, North Africa and the Orient as a member of the Fuller Ballet, a group headquartered in Paris.

PLAYHOUSE

Critic's Choice (now playing) It is surprising to find Bob Hope and Lucille Ball doing something different, such as acting in a serious vein with only an occasional wisecrack or wacky situation.

The film deals with the trials of a dedicated Broadway critic, Bob Hope, who is forced to review his wife's first attempt at playwriting. The wife, Lucille Ball, sells her drama about her four zany sisters to a leading producer. The critic, who intends to write the truth as he sees it, heads for a father-and-son baseball game to forget his troubles.

A number of funny incidents follow in the wildest Hope and Ball tradition at the ball game, with Jim Backus, a neighboring psychiatrist, and with Miss Ball's mother, Jessie Royce Landis. Matters come to a head at the Boston tryouts and here the film moves from pure comedy to comedy-drama, fraught with ex-wives, and big decisions. Comment pretty funny, anyway.

ROMANTIC RHUBARB brews when Bob Hope, as a drama critic, comments on the play written by his wife, Lucille Ball, in "Critic's Choice" now at the Playhouse.

GARDEN

Sundays and Cybele (now playing) is a moving and tragic film woven from a French novel by Romain Pines. The photography and musical score are very effective adjuncts to the story.

The story opens with a prologue, in which a flier accidently machine guns a young girl to death. The flier, played with remarkable understanding and depth by Hardy Kruger, crashes and suffers amnesia.

In his wanderings about the city, he comes upon a man obviously getting rid of a little girl by depositing her at an orphanage. He becomes enormously attached to the child, played by appealing Patricia Gozzi. They both look forward to the Sundays when he may take her from the orphanage. Tragedy strikes as his friends misunderstand the attachment.

The film is a tour de force for writer-director Serge Bourguignon who has a remarkably sensitive camera eye. The subtitles are in English. Comment, lyricism and latent tragedy.

shorts, skirts and dresses, featuring white cotton lace over pink or just plain pink and white. The tops have a Petti bathing suit bra inside, to provide a smooth fit for young figures.

Summer formals for the young show oil yellow roses on white organdy, or fine gold thread on the bodice of sand-colored organdy. Look at the white with turquoise or yellow chiffon cummerbund, trailing into a long pennant in back.

Little girls—children's size — are well served this summer at Princess by a collection of serious bathing suits done in red-white-blue stripe or tweedy print. NO RUFFLES. Pandora is the maker.

For camp, Princess shows a child's slicker shirt in a vinyl you can actually throw into the washing machine. Gingham lines it. Another camp jacket is laminated wool and acrylic, double-breasted navy with white buttons and all doors barred against cool night breezes.

CHEESE? CHOCOLATE?

Where's the Trap? The Country Mouse has set his imprimatur on a seven-inch long bar of milk chocolate which you may now buy at, of all places, The Country Mouse. Fifty cents.

The Mouse also appears on the wrapper of scented soap bars "made entirely by hand for The Country Mouse, Princeton." Among the 20 scents (but each cake is 35 scents, three for a dollar) you will find lemon verbena, of course; cinnamon, apple blossom, lavender, lilac, balsam and so on and so on. A big bar is 75 cents.

Country Mouse's favorite stock these days is the summer bag, made of fabric and trimmed shortly and sharply with leather. Some are Madras — what else! — others are denim. Some are even all leather.

We liked a red and white (or blue and white) ticking bag with red leather band and handle. A deep, dark navy denim has the same leather treatment, and a saddlebag denim has a long, thin leather handle to loop over the pommel.

There's a little bag, a Madras clutch, for only $2.75, but mostly the prices are about $6.95, with a top of $10.95 for bone leather, untrimmed.

NO TOWNSHIP MEETING Next Monday. "Quorum" is a key word in volunteer community government and a businessman on an out-of-town trip can mean a postponed ordinance. With three of its five members scheduled to be out of Princeton Monday, Township Committee has cancelled its first - Monday - in - May meeting and will meet instead this Thursday at 8 p.m. in Township Hall.

The change means that public hearings on the Snowden Lane and Herrontown Road speed limits and the construction of Terhune Road will be put off until May 20. This Thursday, Committee will introduce three new ordinances: the Guyot Avenue sidewalk, the Rosedale Road footpath and the Riverside - Prospect sewer.

The committeemen involved are Maurice F. Healy, Jr., John O. Green and William Wilson.

TWO LOSE LICENSES For Drunken Driving. Five — an unusally high number — drunken driving charges were heard in court Monday by Borough Magistrate Theodore T. Tams, Jr. Three were adjourned.

Warren Burns, 48, 158 Mercer Street, and Freddy H. Voorhees, 18, Belle Meade, were each fined the mandatory $225. Their licenses were automatically revoked for two years. Both denied their guilt.

Anthony J. Lejnar, 19, Coppermine Road, had his license revoked 90 days. In addition, fines of $15 and $10 were levied against Mr. Lejnar for reckless driving and failing to obey a traffic officer's signal. He was charged with driving too fast in a school zone, bus-loading area and trying to escape arrest.

Peter M. Grosz, 36, Pretty Brook Road, was fined $30, and Mrs. Nancy G. Mayer, 28, 58 Battle Road, $34, for speeding. Magistrate Tams also revoked the license of Mr. Grosz, leaving the duration of the suspension up to the discretion of the Motor Vehicle Department.

Mrs. Alicia Nash, 137 Spruce Street, paid $15 for driving an unregistered vehicle. In criminal court, James Hall, 145 Witherspoon Street, was fined $25 after pleading guilty to a charge of geing drunk and disorderly. He had refused to leave the Princeton Hospital dispensary Sunday night, police said.

READY FOR THE COUNT? Census Due In Township. A corps of 200 Townshlp PTA members will fan out over the municlpallty.

The volunteers will knock on every door, bearing two cards to be filled out with information sought by the Township School Board.

One card is for information on children in the home: names, birth dates, whether they attend public, parochial or private school, current grade and so on. (This count will be made every year from now on.)

The second card is for information on adults in the home: names and birth-dates of the head of the household, his wife and all post-high-school residents.

For That Long Range. This second card is to be used by Simon Marcson and his Census Committee to help the school board make long-range plans. Perhaps the most important questions are: "Does the head of the household expect to move in the next year?" and "How long has the head of the household been a resident of Princeton — Borough or Township?"

The school board estimates that both cards can be answered by the householder in about 10 minutes.

Under the overall direction of Mrs. Donald Rugg, four major area captains are in charge of the census. They are Mrs. Herbert Abelson (Community Park area); Mrs. D.J. Blattner, Littlebrook, Mrs. Paul R. Benson, Johnson Park and Mrs. S.B. Treiman, Riverside.

For census purposes, the Township has been divided into 78 sub areas and these in turn have been broken into neighborhoods. School board members believe that each PTA census-taker can complete her appointed rounds in two afternoons and an evening.

The 200 volunteers will have a preliminary training session this Thursday morning and an advanced class this Thursday night so that they will know how to fill out the right spot on the census cards.

Each card has been prepunched with its area code, and identified by the address of the household. After the data processing machine has done its work, Mr. Marcson's committee will begin to examine the results in preparation for a fall report to the school board.

TANKS GET A CHARGE From Surrounding Soil. After years of quietly living next to one another, a few underground gasoline storage tanks in Princeton discovered they didn't get along after all. As a result, probably the biggest electrical batteries in Princeton last week were to be found 15 to 20 feet underground.

Borough Engineer Arthur T. Brokaw reported last week that the underground storage tanks of several service stations in "gasoline alley" had spring leaks. "Gasoline alley" is the generic term for the cluster of seven stations on Nassau Street located in the block between Olden Street and Murray Place.

That something was amiss in the area became evident about two weeks ago. At that time, Mr. Brokaw reported his department began getting several calls from Maple Street residents complaining of gas fumes in the home.

Concurrently, several motorists who patronized a station in the area complained of car trouble. It was discovered that all had received gasoline heavily diluted with water.

Gas in Sewer Lines. Nassau Oil Company, which investigated the home complaints, confirmed the presence of gas fumes. The Borough's investigation revealed traces of gasoline in its sewer lines. Accordingly, Mr. Brokaw sent letters to every station in the area, requesting that it check all its storage tanks for leaks.

"We got wonderful cooperation from all of the oil companies," Mr. Brokaw said. "Ironically," he continued, "the first station which discovered a leak was Turney Motor Company which is supplied by the Nassau Oil Company." One station discovered it was losing 108 gallons from one tank every 48 hours.

Under certain conditions, Mr. Brokaw reported, water will enter the tanks and rust them out. When the water level rises, it flows into the tanks; when it lowers, gas flows out of the tanks.

A spokesman for the Humble Oil Company servicing Kline's Esso Station said the trouble was attributable to an electrical action in the soil itself. The very nature of the soil here, he said, sets up an electrical current so that the tanks themselves act as a battery, throwing off an electrical charge. This draws little bits of metal from the tank which results in pitting and an eventual hole.

Tanks Are Replaced. Kline's replaced four huge tanks with a capacity of 12,000 gallons. A fifth tank which had been installed only a year-and-a-half ago was left intact.

Turney Motors replaced its 1000-gallon tank, which was 30 years old, and a 500-gallon tank with three 2000-gallon tanks. At Heacock & Hussey's Tydol station, two 1000-gallon tanks are being replaced with larger tanks. Test reports from other stations were negative.

LECTURES PLANNED By Miss Fine's-PCD. The first of a public lecture series on possibilities and problems of secondary schools will be held at 8 p.m. Friday at Princeton Country Day School.

The series is sponsored by the Miss Fine's - Princeton Country Day Schools Alumni and Parents Committee.

Dr. James W. Smith, associate professor of philosophy at Princeton, will lecture on "Education in a Democracy." A former teacher at Oxford and author of "Religion in American Life," Dr. Ward was recently named leader of the first Princeton Telluride Program, scheduled for this summer, which will introduce high school students to college-level study of philosphical aspects of American history.

Group seminars will follow the lecture, led by Dr. E. Alden Dunham, director of admissions; Dr. Jeremiah S. Finch, English professor; Dr. J. Merrill Knapp, Dean of the College, and Dr. John W. Ward, history professor-all of Princeton Universtiy.

Also, Dr. Chester R. Stroup, superintendent of schools and Dr. Max Bogart, assistant director of secondary education for the State of New Jersey. All interested members of the community are invited to attend.

"HAVE A COKE" Says Wellesley Club. High school sophomores and juniors interested in Wellesley College are invited to a "coke party" by the Wellesley Club of Central New Jersey. The affair will be held at 4 p.m. next Thursday, May 9, at the home of Mrs. Roy S. Vogt, 35 Knoll Drive.

Slides of the college will be shown and alumnae will be present to answer questions. Girls who would like to attend may obtain further information from Mrs. Vogt, WA 1-6229.

PLENTY OF VARIETY For Newcomers' Club. The Newcomers' Club will hear Detective John Latawiec of the Trenton State Police discuss the polygraph at next Wednesday's morning coffee session. There will also be an exhibit by the Arts and Crafts group and other units. The meeting

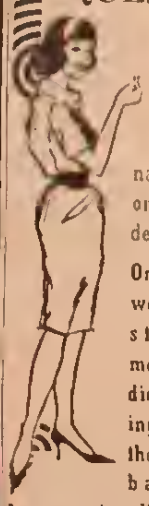
YOUR CARPET QUESTIONS



Is there any way to restore the nap of the rug, once it has been destroyed?

Once the nap is worn, no. If destroyed you mean you got, or did, a poor cleaning job and left the rug looking bad, I would suggest calling a reliable cleaning service for an estimate and at that time the man will tell you if anything can be done.

begins at 9:30, baby sitting will be provided at the YWCA.

A spring dinner-dance is planned for May 18 at the Nassau Inn. Mrs. Robert Pollock of 17 Lawnside Drive, Trenton, is in charge of reservations. Adolph DeRomegis will provide the music.

DINNER-DANCE PLANNED

By University Women. The Princeton branch of the American Association of University Women will hold its Fellowship Fund dinner-dance at 7:30 this Saturday at Pike Brook Country Club, Belle Mead. Mrs. Harold E. Crane Jr. of Kingston is chairman.

Four members were prize winners at the Creative Arts Festival held last week by the New Jersey division of the AAUW at the Florham-Madison campus of Fairleigh-Dickinson University.

Mrs. Harold E. Crane won first prize for her block print Christmas card. Second prizes went to Mrs. E. E. Horsington for her handwoven rug and Mrs. Bernard R. Lancios for her oil painting, "Mystic Procession Through The Grass." Mrs. Lynn B. Mann won third prize for her entry in the music division.

LUNCH IN STYLE

At Fashion Show. Bathing suits that go back to 395 A.D. and contemporary dresses that don't go back at all, will be modeled this Saturday at the luncheon-fashion show to be given by the Princeton Business and Professional Women's Club at the Princeton Inn at 12:30.

That 395 A.D. bathing suit is a model of a toga worn by Romans, impractical for swimming, but useful in a Roman bath. From the collection of bathing suits assembled by Cole of California and lent for the occasion to the Mary Gill Dress Shop, the show will offer an 1850 swim suit with full-length sleeves, ankle-length pantalettes, black stockings and bathing shoes.

The Gibson Girl era will be represented by a daring model without sleeves, and there will be an exact duplicate of the scandalous diving suit worn by Annette Kellerman.

On the contemporary side, there will be dresses, shorts, slacks, blouses, skirts, knits and modern bathing suits from Mary Gill and hostess robes, lounging pajamas and nightgowns from Edith's Lingerie Shop.

Information about the fashion show may be obtained from Mrs. Ethel Herrick, WA 4-3639, or Mrs. Nina Harrison, WA-1-6805.

Mrs. Paul T. Bortell

MRS. BORTELL NAMED

To Head YWCA. Mrs. Paul T. Bortell Jr. is the new president of the YWCA. Formerly vice-president, she succeeds Mrs. John J. Criscitiello, who resigned to become a social worker in the Malawan school system.

New directors named are Mrs. Charles Lambert, as chairman of the World Fellowship Committee, and Mrs. Howard Brackney as membership chairman. Mrs. T. Cuyler Young headed the nominating committee.

An active member of the YWCA since she arrived in Princeton five years ago, Mrs. Bortell was first president of the Newcomers' Club. As a YWCA director, she has served as chairman of the Y-Teen committee and co-chairman of the International Festival.

Mrs. Bortell, whose husband is with Western Electric, is also homes committee chairman for the American Field Service exchange program, a member of the Council of United Church Women and an officer of the Women's Association of the First Presbyterian Church.

$2,400 OFFERED

By Lions Club. The Princeton Lions Club will continue its youth scholarship program this year, offering up to two grants of $1,200 each. The stipends will be awarded over a four-year period on the basis of need and desire for continuing education beyond the secondary level.

Girls and boys presently residing in the Borough or Township are eligible to apply. Applications may be sent to the Lions Club, Nassau Inn.

A broom sale has also been announced by the club to take place next Tuesday through Saturday. The sale has been scheduled to coincide with the community's clean-up week.

Proceeds from the sale will benefit the scholarship fund as well as a Christmas party for the children of the New Jersey Neuro - Psychiatric Institute. Part of the funds will also be used to provide eye glasses for those unable to afford them and to support various Lions activities.

The club has urged that area residents have yearly eye examinations after the age of 40 in an effort to prevent the developing of such diseases as glaucoma. The club noted that free care is provided by the Princeton Hospital Eye Clinic.

IT'S CANADA-U.S. WEEK

Professor To Address Kiwanis. Dr. Jorma O. Kalliokoski, Associate Professor of Geology at Princeton University, will be the main speaker at the Thursday luncheon meeting of the Kiwanis Club at the Nassau Inn. The Club is currently celebrating the 40th anniversary of Canada-U.S. Goodwill Week.

Professor Kalliokoski, who was born in Finland, was, for many years, a naturalized Canadian. He received most of his schooling there, earning his B.S. degree from Western Ontario College. He is now a citizen of the United States.

Canada-U.S. Goodwill week was originated by Kiwanis. It is designed to focus attention on the 150 years that Canada and the U.S. have lived together in peace.

HEADMISTRESS NAMED

To Stuart Country Day. Mother Joan Kirby has been appointed headmistress of Stuart Country Day School of the Sacred Heart, according to Russell O'Brien, chairman of the school's advisory board. Mother Kirby's appointment was made by Reverend Mother A.M. Barry, Superior Vicar, Washington Vicariate.

Mother Kirby, who received both her A.B. and M.A. degrees from Manhattanville College, was awarded the Licence en Philosophie after two years of graduate work at Louvain University in Belgium. After earning a teaching certificate for French from L'Institute Catholique de Paris, Mother Kirby received a fellowship at Georgetown University's School of Languages and Linguistics.

Having joined the teaching Society of the Sacred Heart in 1948, Mother Kirby is at present assistant headmistress at Stony Ridge Country Day School of the Sacred Heart in Washington. She has been a delegate for several years to Independent School Education Board conferences.

Mr. O'Brien also announced that admission tests for Stuart Country Day would be given this Saturday at 9.30 a.m. for all grades, pre-school through tenth, at Princeton Country Day School. Tests will be given under the direction of Mother Kirby.

Obituaries

Dr. Edward S. Corwin, 85, of 487 Stockton Street, died April 29 in Princeton Hospital after a long illness.

Former McCormick Professor of Jurisprudence at Princeton University, Dr. Corwin was a foremost authority on U.S. constitutional law and theory. He had been in the national spotlight for almost four decades—ever since the appearance in 1920 of his monumental "The Constitution and What It Means Today," which has since gone through 11 editions and numerous translation.

Born in Plymouth, Mich. Dr. Corwin was a Phi Beta Kappa graduate of the University of Michigan, Class of 1900. He received his doctorate from the University of Pennsylvania in 1905, the year he was called to Princeton by Woodrow Wilson as one of the original "preceptor guys."

Dr. Corwin taught at Ishpeming (Mich.) High School, Brooklyn Polytechnical School and at his Michigan alma mater before joining the Princeton faculty. He was named a full professor in 1911, assumed the McCormick Professorship in 1918 and served as first chairman of the department of politics from 1924 to 1935. He was one of the first to trace the doctrine of due process of law as "reasonable law," and wrote more than 20 volumes in his field.

Edward S. Corwin

Dr. Corwin was always outspoken on public issues in his field. In 1937 he supported Roosevelt's Supreme Court reorganization plan; three years later, he backed Wendell Willkie because "I feel that the ban on a third term is a wholesome constitutional restraint." In 1948, he called the presidential cabinet "an administrative anachronism," advocating a legislative council "whose daily political salt does not come from the Presidential table." When Truman seized the steel industry in 1952, Dr. Corwin urged new legislation to define presidential powers in labor disputes.

He served in 1954 as chairman of a national committee which opposed the Bricker Amendment to restrict the President's treaty-making powers. During Eisenhower's illness in 1955, he wrote that the vast power given to Presidential Assistant Sherman Adams "is hardly in accord with the precepts of democracy," suggesting Congress authorize a new type of cabinet, drawn from the Executive and Congressional leaders, to determine when the president is disabled.

A past president of the American Political Science Association, he received the Franklin Medal and Henry M. Phillips Prize from the American Philosophical Society for his contributions. He was also a member of the American Historical Association, the Southern Political Science Association and the Institute International de Droit Public.

Surviving are his widow, the former Mildred S. Smith, and a sister, Mrs. Henry Ford of Kalamazoo, Mich.

A memorial service will be held in the University Chapel at a date to be announced. Funeral arrangements were under direction of the Mather Funeral Home, with interment in Plymouth.

Mrs. Josephine P. Morgan, 93, died April 26 at her home on Constitution Hill, where she had lived since 1897. She was the widow of Junius S. Morgan, banker and art collector.

Mrs. Morgan was born in Washington, D. C., the daughter of Brig. Gen. Alexander J. Perry, a Union officer during the Civil War. Her grandfather was Nathaniel H. Perry, a brother of Commodore Oliver H. Perry, hero of the War of 1812.

A founder of the Princeton Garden Club, Mrs. Morgan was a member of Trinity Episcopal Church, the Present Day Club, the Colonial Dames, the DAR and the Colony Club of New York.

In 1929, she led a committee seeking legislation for the control of billboards on the state's highways. Her husband, a nephew of J. Pierpont Morgan, died in 1932.

Surviving are a son, Alexander P. Morgan of New York, six grandchildren and 19 great-grandchildren.

The funeral was held in Trinity Episcopal Church, the Rev. Robert R. Spears Jr. officiating. Interment was in Princeton Cemetery, under direction of the Mather Funeral Home.

Mrs. Helen T. Porter Lowe, 86, of 56 Einstein Drive, died April 26 in Merwick, the Princeton Hospital nursing home, where she had been for six years. She was the wife of paleographer Elias A. Lowe of the Institute for Advanced Study.

A poet and translator who wrote under the name of H. T. Lowe-Porter, Mrs. Lowe was particularly noted for her translations of the German author, Thomas Mann. She began in 1924 with an English version of "Buddenbrooks" and continued with the books by the Nobel prize-winner until 1951, when her rendering of "The Holy Sinner" appeared.

Mrs. Lowe also translated another German author, Leon Feuchtwanger, and wrote poetry and drama of her own. Fifteen years ago the Gate Theatre in Dublin produced her controversial verse play, "Abdication," said to be a thinly veiled account, in Shakespearean language, of Edward VIII's

DEAR TRAVELERS:

Former President Eisenhower has met with officials of a new and unique "floating university" which, during the later part of this year and early 1964, will enable some 1,000 graduate and undergraduate students to visit 17 countries as part of their regular academic college program.

Mr. Eisenhower said that two special educational trips around the world are now being developed within the theme of the "People to People" program. He pointed out that they are designed to foster understanding through personal contact between students of various countries.

The voyages are sponsored by the University of the Seven Seas, a nonprofit educational institution incorporated in California. Sailings are from New York aboard the 12,574-ton MS SEVEN SEAS on October 22, 1963, returning to San Diego, Calif. Feb. 8, 1964, and from San Diego on Feb. 11, 1964, returning to New York on June 9, 1964.

The ship, operated by the Europe-Canada Line for which Holland - America Line is General Passenger Agent, will have complete classroom facilities. The curriculum will offer courses in basic subjects including geography, history, anthropology, languages, literature, political science, etc. The faculty will be composed of 35 members from leading universities throughout the world.

Tuition for each of the two semesters is $100 and rates for the voyages range from $1,590.

BEFORE "HENRY MADE A LADY OUT OF LIZZIE:" May 24, 1924, the date this picture was taken of Princeton's Ford agency, preceded by four years the introduction of the Model A, the obsolescence of the beloved Model T "Tin Lizzie" and the popular song celebrating the event. Since then, Nassau-Conover Motors has increased its sales from 350 cars a year to over 1500. This past week, it moved all of its operations from this building at 18 Chambers Street to its new, enlarged headquarters on Route 206.

BUSINESS In Princeton

CONOVER AGENCY MOVES To New Route 206 Location. Henry Ford used to say about his marvellous horseless carriage, the Model T, "You can have it in any color you want so long as it's black." Paraphrasing his dictum, the Nassau Motor Company, now 58 years old, has been operated over the past 45 years by an unusual father-son combination with a success which has required only one shade of ink black.

The business, now known as the Nassau-Conover Motor Company, this week has been hard at work moving its entire operation from its familiar 18 Chambers Street address in Princeton to its new building on the outskirts of town at the Route 206 and Cherry Valley Road intersection.

FATHER-AND-SON TEAM: Walter F. Conover Sr. (seated) joined Nassau Motors in 1918, headed the Princeton Ford agency for many years. His sons, George W. (left) and Walter F. Jr., followed in their father's firemarks, now are in active and capable control of the firm's operations.

Senior member of the triumvirate which has genially and helpfully supplied generations of Princeton with a steadily increasing number of what was once known as "Henry's Folly" is Walter F. Conover Sr., who first went to work for the Nassau Motor Company in 1918. At that time, the job of fitting a customer to his preferred model of Ford was relatively easy: there were only four models from which to choose, the runabout (today's convertible); the touring car; the two-door coupe (pronounced "koop") and the four-door sedan (pronounced "SEE-dan").

Today, Mr. Conover's two sons, George W. and Walter Jr., ably carry on active management of the firm with Mr. Conover Sr. still helping to provide road directions for the company's continuing progress. Where there were once four models from which to choose, there are now 41 in the complete Ford-Mercury-Lincoln line handled by the agency.

The Choice Is Wide. But 41 models in the entire line doesn't begin to describe the complexities involved in the agency's selling operation today compared with what it was 45 years ago. According to some slide-rule expert at the company's headquarters, there are now over one million possible combinations of car, model, color and accessories available in the entire line.

The price spread has concurrently widened and, of course, gone up. A memento of the days when the faithful Model T, affectionately but inexplicably called the "Tin Lizzie," is framed and hangs on one of the walls of the Nassau-Conover agency's new offices. It is a 1923 receipted bill for the purchase of one Ford touring car with starter and demountable wheel rims. Without additional extras: $393. With speedometer, bumper, rear-view mirror and other appendages: $512.82.

The administrative, service and repair additions to the Nassau-Conover building have been designed to provide the maximum in efficiency and convenience for both patrons and employees. To the rear of the building's main sales area, which was built in 1957, there are executive offices, a conference room, a central accounting department and individual, private sales offices for each salesman.

The service area of the structure is fully equipped with the most advanced devices available to assist in automotive servicing including compressed-air hoists for each of the eight service bays, seven for passenger cars and one for trucks, self-storing exhaust vent tubes for each bay, a new car-wash area and a centralized storage and distribution section for replacement parts and accessories. The area covers approximately 10,000 square feet.

Another feature of the service building's design is the new "in-and-out" traffic flow pattern. This means that cars will enter by one door and exit from the other end of the building when work on them is completed, thereby eliminating the complicated and time - consuming game of automotive checkers which was necessary when cars entered

A COME-ON FOR SPRING: Publicity for the Newcomers Spring Dance is a far cry from the usual two-dimensional poster. This series of shadow-boxes, backed by a swath of fabric, has been prepared under the direction of Mrs. Wyatt Hegler, to lure Newcomers to their dance on May 18 at the Nassau Inn. Person To Person

Cory S. Kammler

We heard an unbelievable story that comes from no less a source than the International Botanical Congress, where it was received in an official report from India's delegation. Their report says that it has been scientifically proved that flute music similar to the kind played by Indian snake charmers will speed up the growth of cornstalks. They played flute music to a selected group of plants for a half hour a day for 30 days. Another nearby group of plants, out of ear shot of the music, grew at their normal rate, but the plants treated to the daily serenade actually grew twenty-five to fifty percent faster than their "jiveless" brethern! Well, who are we to question so reliable a source? But we can't resist the thought, (now, don't throw anything) . . . that we've always said that the corn had ears . . . It reminds us that in every field of endeavor there are phrases that are mysteries to outsiders . . . as expressed in the saying, "there are tricks in all trades." But you certainly do not want to be subject to any "tricks" when you do business with anyone, and the sure way to avoid them is to do business only with those who have always demonstrated that their prime aim is to be worthy of public respect and confidence. For mutual benefit, may we serve you? Kammler Buick-Pontiac Co., Route 206, opposite Princeton Airport, WA 1-2222.

creative fund drive between the Red Cross and the Princeton United Community Fund.

In addition to the officers named above, the executive committee approved a class of four directors to serve for three years. They are Mrs. Henry Chauncey, Erling Dorf, Ed Schulz and Ridgley Cook.

Any contributor to the Red Cross is eligible to attend the May 15 meeting at the Nassau Inn and any member of the Princeton chapter may present additional nominations from the floor. Nominations may also be made through petitions bearing the names of 15 chapter members.

ALL TEAMS WIN

In Latin Contest. Three teams of three members each were fielded last month by the Latin Department of Princeton High School and all three teams placed among the winners, it was announced this week.

A fourth-year team consisting of Linda Blattenberger, Carol Deering and Deborah Abrams, with Stephen Kerr as alternate, won first place in the state wide competition. Miss Deering and Miss Blattenberger won first and second individual awards, respectively.

The second-year Latin team also took first place in its category. Barbara Shore, Nancy Schenck and Diane Ostheim were the members, with Kathryn Sherrick as alternate. Miss Shore won second place in the individual scoring.

A third-year Latin team consisting of Sheila Holman, Constance O'Dea and Sallie Griffin with Lauren Leuck as alternate, won second place in its division, with Miss O'Dea taking second place in the individual contest.

PUT MOM ON WHEELS

Mother's Day Contest Set. A "Mom's My Best Friend" competition is being staged by Bamberger's New Jersey to add more glamour to Mother's Day. The grand prize is a Pontiac Catalina sports coupe.

Back in 1914, when Mother's Day was first celebrated, mom was taken for a spin in the horseless carriage — after a festive meal which she probably prepared herself.

Today, lots of moms are treated to an elegant restaurant dinner, and Bamberger's has the inviting idea to give somebody's mom an equally elegant and modern horseless carriage for use all year.

Entry blanks are available at Bamberger's and at Pontiac dealers'. The phrase, "Mom's my best friend because . . ." is to be completed in 50 words and turned in to the Princeton store by Wednesday, May 8. Only one winner will be chosen for the grand prize, but a winner in each Bamberger store area will receive a $25 gift certificate. Awards will be announced May 11.

ARTISTRY FEATURED

At Flower Show. The Dogwood Garden Club of Princeton will hold its second annual flower show Thursday, Friday and Saturday, May 9, 10 and 11, at the Princeton Shopping Center.

Featured in the show will be artistic arrangements open to area garden clubs and garden departments of women's clubs. The horticultural section will be limited to members of the Dogwood Club.

Mrs. Thomas Johnson is the honorary chairman and Mrs. Clinton Clement general chairman. Assisting with the arrangement of the show are Mrs. Walton Van Winkle, Mrs. Philip Shays, Mrs. Edward Schulz, Mrs. George Knaefler, Mrs. Robert Engelbrecht, Mrs. John Houghton, Mrs. William Marvel, Mrs. Thomas Halstead, Mrs. Jerome Schulster, Mrs. Carl Sjostrom, Mrs. James G. Robinson and Mrs. Dudley Clark Jr.

JUVENILES TO BENEFIT

From Men's Club Drive. The YMCA Men's Club will collect items on Saturday for the State Home for Boys at Jamesburg.

Marvin Durland and Robert Duncan will head the collection. Items needed include TV sets, washing machines, radios, record players and records, athletic equipment, books and games — all in usable condition.

New officers are Quentin Lyle, president; Charles Peterson, vice-president, and William McCarroll, secretary-treasurer. Robert Duncan, Walter Fullam and Dietrich Meyerhofer have been elected to the executive board.

PRESIDENT NAMED

By Jersey Manufacturers. Leonard C. Johnson of 41 Overbrook Drive has been elected president of the New Jersey Manufacturers Association.

Mr. Johnson will replace Henry W. Johnson. The new president has been the executive vice-president of the firm and has previously served as executive secretary, assistant secretary and director of industrial relations. He is chairman of the Princeton Township Board of Adjustment and vice-chairman of the Governor's committee on Employment of the Physically Handicapped.

Two other area residents have been promoted by the firm. They are George E. Meredith and Vincent E. Hoyer, both of Pennington. Mr. Meredith has been named senior

GOING BACK in Town Topics

FIVE YEARS AGO

TOWN TOPICS, May 1, 1958: The case of burlesque dancers Judy and Bubbles vs. several undergraduates was giving the metropolitan tabloids some gamey copy. According to TOWN TOPICS' report, the week's peculiar activity began with the dancers from Philadelphia putting on a "girlie" show at an off-campus party honoring new members of a Princeton eating club.

When some of the boys convinced the performers they should give Act II in a university dormitory, the situation headed for trouble. And later, when the entertainers debated the extent of their limited engagement with their hosts, police attention was required.

The Borough, having received a number of complaints about the narrowness of the Bayard Lane approach to Nassau Street, sent the letters on to the State Highway Department and was awaiting a reply. (The approach is still narrow.)

Unlike arid April 1963, the corresponding month in 1958 had begun and ended on an unusually soggy note, with rainfall for the 30-day period about 60% above normal. For April 1963, rainfall gives grim promise of being below normal by about 90% percent.

TOWN TOPICS reported in its May 1, 1958, issue that a band of "Mexican opium smugglers" had made their way across the "American border" and past guards to deliver a "box of opium" in Princeton the preceding weekend. Police did not investigate. It was all part of Boy Scout Troop 50's entertainment program during a weekend campout.

TEN YEARS AGO

TOWN TOPICS, April 30, 1953: A harmless pastime that children know as "lotto" and that adults once had called "bingo" was being referred to in 1953 as "novelty parties" because bingo was presumably illegal. Mercer County Prosecutor Mario Volpe ordered all police chiefs to enforce the no-gambling edict fully, to the extent that they prohibited bingo games, lotteries, raffles and similar activities used by numerous organizations as fund-raising projects.

Reprinted as an advertisement by the Committee for Consolidation was an editorial from a recent issue of the Trenton Sunday Times.

The editorial said in part: "Princeton Township and Princeton Borough are displaying enlightenment and realism in proceeding towards consolidation in order to serve their mutual interests. In doing so, they are showing a commendable example to other communities influenced by conditions similar to those that are making the proposed Princeton consolidation the course of practical wisdom." As everyone knows, editorial or no, consolidation was later rejected by both Township and Borough voters.

The Playhouse was luring patrons with "Salome," which TOWN TOPICS' reviewer called "a lot of picture for fans of the gigantic, Technicolor, sex and the Bible spectacle formula . . . an intellectual insult from the point of view of a document of history . . .".

FIFTEEN YEARS AGO

TOWN TOPICS, April 29, 1948: Nominee for Man of the Week was Luther Phaler Eisenhart, dean emeritus of the Princeton Graduate School and architect of the University's "monumental four-course plan of study," in 1948 executive officer of the American Philosophical Society, the nation's oldest and most distinguished learned society. In addition to his many other outstanding abilities, he was cited by TOWN TOPICS for a memory . . . so prodigious that he required no filing cabinets in his Nassau Hall office."

In pursuit of a tennis ball, 18-year-old Samuel S. Walstrum climbed atop a freight car, brushed against an overhead wire, was hurled to the ground by the charge of electricity. Next day he was "doing well" in Princeton Hospital with nothing more than slight burns.

He was lucky. At the time he touched the wire it was being charged with 650 volts, so that it hurled him away. Had the normal 250 volts been coursing through, Walstrum would have been electrocuted.

I SEE STARS!: Young astronomers of the seventh magnitude (that is, members of the seventh grade at Valley Road), celebrated completion of an astronomy study unit last week with a look at Mars, the nova in Orion, Jupiter, the Andromeda and Dumbell nebulae and Cassiopeia herself. Mrs. Mary Ballard, science co-ordinator for the Township schools, says that the astronomy study, new to the Township curriculum, was a distinct success and will be done again.

MUSIC In Princeton

BASIE TO EXPLODE

In McCarter Sunday. The man who has been called "the most explosive force in jazz today," Count Basie himself, will come to McCarter Theatre Sunday at 3 for a jazz concert with his 15-piece orchestra.

A band leader since 1935, Count Basie continues his piano style, backing it up with a strong rhythm section to produce that special sound that has insured the band's popularity. Tickets for the Basie concert are available at the McCarter box-office.

GLEE CLUB GOES POPS

For Houseparties. The light and the blithe will characterize the musical offerings of the Princeton University Glee Club when the group appears for its annual Houseparties Concert Friday at 8 in Alexander Hall.

Appearing for the last time this season under their acting conductor, Thomas Hilbish, glee club members will sing the music that has delighted their Puerto Rican friends for the past four years, including the fregon, "El Frutero," which has sent multilingual cheers ringing through the Island.

In the Houseparties concert, Bela Bartok and Randall Thompson will be represented in their lighter moods and various soloists with the glee club will appear in "Lowlands," "A-Roving" and "Green Grow the Rushes-O." A traditional football medley and the Drinking Song from Vaughn Williams' "Sir John in Love" will bring the concert to a close.

Tickets, at $1.50, each, will be available at Alexander Hall at Friday night.

CONCERT ON TUESDAY

At Westminster. The Westminster Chapel Choir and Herbert V. Pale, bass, will give a public concert at 8 p.m. Tuesday in the college chapel. Admission is free.

Mr Pele's program will include songs of Purcell, Mendelssohn and Grieg, as well as arias by Handel and Mozart. Associate professor of voice at Westminster, he will be accompanied by Harriet Guthrie, a Westminster graduate presently serving as organist-director at Willow Grove (Pa.) Methodist Church.

The choir's program, conducted by Robert Simpson, will include works of Redford, Gibbons, Sweelinck, Morales, Schutz, Haydn, Berger and York. David Porkola will accompany.

"Rag" Is Here

"O,O,O,O That Shakespeherean Rag," recorded by the Princeton Chamber Singers under Thomas Hilbish, is now available in commercial recording.

The fantastically difficult work by Salvatore Martirano was first performed on March 25, 1962, in Town Hall by the Princeton Chamber Singers. The title comes from T S Eliot and the texts from Shakespeare himself, however one chooses to spell the name.

Recorded by Composers Recording, Inc, the record is now on sale at the Princeton University Store and the Princeton Music Center on Palmer Square.

STUDENTS TO BE HEARD

In Graduate Recital. Music by graduate student composers in the University's department of music will be presented in two concerts to be given this Sunday and the following Sunday at 3.30 in Clio Hall.

Nine composers, all students of Roger Sessions, will be represented. This Sunday, the program will consist of "Four Songs for Soprano" by Richard Aaker Trythall; Alden Brings' Sonata for Unaccompanied Violin; Mark DeVoto's "Tzigane" for violin, piano and piano four hands and Tobias Robison's Sonata for Clarinet.

Next Sunday, May 12, the program will include John Harbison's String Quartet, Alan Heard's Two Movements from String Quartet No. 1; George Todd's "Scherzo"; Stephen Pruslin's String Trio and Edward Laufer's String Quartet.

RECITAL SCHEDULED

For Chapin School. Soprano Janice Harsanyi will give a benefit concert on Wednesday, May 15, for the Chapin School. The recital will be held at 8 p.m. in the new Kirby Arts Center of the Lawrenceville School.

Her program will range from German Lieder to Negro spirituals. George Reeves will accompany at the piano.

The wife of Nicholas Harsanyi, conductor of the Trenton and Princeton Symphony Orchestras, she made her debut in 1958 with Eugene Ormandy and the Philadelphia Orchestra and has since made 17 appearances with the Philadelphia group. She has introduced the works of such American composers as Roger Sessions, Richard Yardumian, Milton Babbitt, John Eaton and George Roehberg.

Mrs. Frank Heyniger is chairman of the concert committee, assisted by Mrs. Gordon L. Miller, Mrs. Richard Hoffman, Mrs Frederick Worthington and Mrs. Peter Goldman. Tickets are available at the University Store and at the bursar's office at Lawrenceville School.

MUSIC FROM MARS

"How Dry I Am." The atmosphere of Mars is almost completely dry, according to astronomers from Princeton University and University of California

Dr. Martin Schwarzschild of Princeton, general director of the Stratoscope II balloon project, presented the results of the March 1 flight before the American Astronomical Society in Tucson. Also taking part were Drs. Robert E Danielson, John E. Gaustad and Neville J Woolfe of Princeton, and Dr. Harold Weaver of the University of California at Berkeley.

The observations of Mars, made from about 78,000 feet with a 36-inch remote controlled telescope, revealed that the total water vapor around Mars apparently constitutes less than one-half a cubic mile of liquid water—scarcely enough to fill a small lake. "We detected no water with certainty, and we therefore conclude that the amount of water vapor is . . . probably less than 1/1000 of that in the Earth's atmosphere," the report said.

Data on the planet's extreme dryness lends weight to the theory that the Martian polar "ice caps" are in fact extremely thin layers of hoar frost, perhaps less than 1/100-inch thick.

The high altitude observation clearly revealed a sizeable measure of carbon dioxide on Mars, confirming earlier studies from the Earth's surface.

WHAT STIMULATED THEM? Plato and Shakespeare, two writers whose work seems destined to stimulate readers for as long as men read. For the comments of Michael Foster (left) and George Scheper on the book that has stimulated them the most recently, see below. (Staff Photo)

Question of the Week

Question: What book have you read recently, either fiction or non-fiction, that has stimulated you the most?

Where asked: Bryn Mawr Book Sale.

Michael Foster, Graduate College, graduate student, history. Plato's "Theaetetus." Historically and philosophically it is a very interesting book. Even though it was written 2000 years ago, Plato's ideas are still up to date. Philosophically, it is of much value, too.

George Scheper, 30 Mercer Street, graduate student, English literature: Shakespeare's Sonnets. They're introspective and good for present contemplation.

Eugene Lieber, Rutgers University, graduate student: "The Rise and Fall of the Third Reich." It revives something that should be revived to the American public. Whereas today Germany is considered an ally of the United States, it reminds one of the horror perpetrated by the Germans. One forgets too easily and I think Shirer has recreated very well the history of this unhappy time.

Frederick F. Stephan, 105 FitzRandolph Road, Princeton University professor: "A Day in the Life of Ivan Denisovitch" by a Russian author. It is the story of a single day in the life of a Russian prisoner of war camp, a very vivid and realistic account. It impressed me by the excellent way in which the author has captured the ability of human beings to continue to exist in a state of almost utter despair. It is very important as an example to the extent which Russian writers are writing frankly and objectively on conditions about some aspects of the Soviet system.

Dean Miller, New Brunswick, Rutgers University student: Everybody's reading William Golding's, "Lord of the Flies." But that's not the best thing he wrote. The best thing he's written is "The Two Deaths of Pincher Martin" which is being published in this country as "Pincher Martin." Golding is concerned with the problem of the single man against nature and this is simply a reliving of an elemental problem: man versus his own nature and man versus his environmental nature — and he does it brilliantly.

Maxwell Luria, 87 Jefferson Road, graduate student, English: A book called "Fruyt and Chaf — Studies in Chaucerian Allegory" by D. W. Robertson, Jr. It is a very illuminating study of Chaucer's early poems. In fact, it is the best I've ever seen on the subject and it is an excellent introduction to medieval literature.

Robert Patton, Hopewell, graduate student, English: Page Smith's "John Adams," a superb study of one of the principle architects of American democracy.

Graeme Moodie, 146 Hodge Road, visiting assistant professor of political science: Paul Goodman's "Community of Scholars." I'm particularly interested in university organization and this is a book that kind of rubs ones nose in some of the more essential functions of the university. It is pleasantly iconoclastic.

Mrs. Kate Moodie, 146 Hodge Road, housewife: James Agee's "A Death in the Family." It's a wonderful book written with love and with taste.

Martin Arbagi, Rutgers University, graduate student, history: "On Thermonuclear War" by Herman Kahn. It deals with a problem that I notice most of the academic communities seem to have a mental block on. It deals bluntly with a very possible contingency—nuclear war—and one that academic communities in the United States, in general, refuse to deal with.

Robert Richardson, 220-D Harrison Street, graduate student, English: The best book I've read recently is "The Once and Future King" by T. H. White. I'm interested in Arthurian legends and White's is the best and most complete retelling of these legends that I have found.

George Landow, 182 Snowden Lane, graduate student, English: "Catch 22." It's one of the most stimulating novels I've come across recently. The style is fantastic and it contains many of my favorite hobby horses.

Clarence Brown, Lawrenceville, teacher of Russian at the University: "The Stoic Comedians" by Hugh Kenner. It is a book of literary criticism, extremely witty with a lively approach. It also has some very funny illustrations by one of my best friends.

Mrs. Charlotte Langlands, 14 Bank Street, housewife: I've recently been reading Arthur Conan Doyle's, "The Hound of the Baskervilles." It is a perfect book for relaxation after a busy day with three children.

Miss Rosemary Allen, 9 Mercer Street, librarian for Princeton University: I think Eliott Porter's, "In Wilderness Is the Preservation of the World." It is done by the Sierra Club and it took ten years to complete. It combines photographs by Porter with the poetry of Thoreau. It is the beautiful manner in which the poetry and the pictures have been combined that make it a wonderful book.

John Hogan, Herrontown Road, advertising research: "My Travels with Charlie" by Steinbeck. Mainly because it describes traveling with a great deal of excitement and enthusiasm and it evokes similar past and future experiences which I hope to have seeing America.

James Grant, Little Hall, University junior: One by Jack Stein, "Richard Wagner and the Synthesis of the Arts." I'm just beginning to get interested in music — I've taken a course in Wagner — and this book answers many of the questions I've been asking myself about declamation, the relation of music to the text.

". . . AND OVER THERE COULD BE THE FIFTH GREEN." Three principals in the Beden's Brook Company talk over plans for the new Princeton Golf and Tennis Club layout with noted golf architect Robert Trent Jones From left, John P. Murray, vice-president; William W. Augustine, president; Trent Jones; Lawrence E. Benson, board member. The club plans to open in early Summer, 1964. The above three principals, along with Roger B. Kirkpatrick, constitute the executive committee in charge of organizational details.

SPORTS In Princeton

NEW GOLF CLUB PLANNED

For Princeton Area. A half-mile northwest of the Princeton Township line, in the gently rolling, wooded land overlooking the Hopewell Valley, lies "an ideal site for a golf course," according to Robert Trent Jones, dean of America's golf architects. By June or July 1964, say the officers of the newly organized Princeton Golf and Tennis Club, the Jones-designed 18-hole course will be installed and ready for play. (For its location, see picture, page three.)

The par-72 championship layout, to be over 7,000 yards long and located on a 150-acre tract of land south of Beden's Brook Road and west of The Great Road, will have a wide variety of interesting and picturesque holes including some carved through the trees and others over ravines and water. Each hole will be designed as a challenge to the low-handicap golfer and yet as a purposely fair test for the average player.

In addition to the high aesthetic and athletic appeal of the golf course, the club will offer full facilities for tennis, swimming and riding. Six all-weather tennis courts are to be built initially, with space for additional courts available.

The large swimming pool will be installed in an area separate from the club house and the tennis courts. Complete riding facilities will be available, with the stables located in the farm buildings on the property.

Club House Design. To be located on the crest of the land overlooking the valley, the Colonial Williamsburg style club house will be designed by Princeton architect William M. Thompson, Jr. The firm of which he is a partner, Steiser and Thompson, have designed many homes in Princeton and elsewhere. They are particularly noted for their work in the colonial type of architectural styling.

Entrance to the club house will be from both The Great Road and from Province Line Road. The building will include a large lounge, grill room, dining facilities, extensive locker rooms, pro shop and several other rooms available for use by club members.

Mr. Trent Jones, who was in Princeton this past weekend to inspect the site for the new course, said that in his opinion the club would do much to "enhance the first-rate golfing opportunities of this area."

He added, "With the excellent contours of the land available and the large number of natural facilities on it in the way of treed areas, Beden's Brook and other streams on the property, it should be possible to construct here a course which will be the equal of the Augusta National."

Successes by Trent Jones. In addition to work Trent Jones has done in refining some of the holes at Augusta, he has been the designer of countless famous courses such as the Dorado Beach in Puerto Rico and the Peachtree in Atlanta. He is well-known for redesigning the Firestone Country Club in Akron from a comparatively uninteresting layout into a truly challenging test of golfing ability.

One of his most recent successes is a course in Spain. And currently, about halfway around the globe on the Hawaiian island of Maui, a Jones-designed courses is in process of construction.

The Princeton Golf and Tennis Club is being organized to offer families in the Princeton area and its immediate vicinity outstanding golf, tennis, swimming and riding facilities in a rural area surrounded by farming estates. The Beden's Brook Company, which purchased the tracts in order to make available sufficient land for the club, plans eventually to offer for sale to club members peripheral land for home sites.

Officers and directors of the Beden's Brook Company are: William W. Augustine, president; John P. Murray, vice president, Hugh D. Wise Jr., secretary; Frederick B. King, treasurer, Lawrence E. Benson, Atherton W. Hobler and William M. Thompson, Jr., directors.

Members of the executive committee handling the organizational details of the club are: Roger B. Kirkpatrick and Messrs. Murray, Benson and Augustine.

The start of construction of the golf course and other facilities is planned for this June with the opening scheduled for early summer in 1964.

HARVARD WEEKEND DUE

Four Contests with Crimson. Athletic activity with Harvard in baseball, lacrosse and tennis here and in crew at Cambridge highlights Princeton's weekend schedule. All three contests here will have a bearing on the eventual winner of the championship in their respective leagues.

The Tigers are defending their titles in lacrosse and tennis and are good enough so that they are favored to repeat. John Conroy's tennis team, which has been steamrollering one opponent after another, will seek to make Harvard its 30th consecutive victim in the matches which start on the University Courts at 2:30.

The lacrosse team likewise has a tremendous streak going as it moves into high gear in search of its seventh straight Ivy League title. Harvard isn't quite the threat that it has been in the past, and Ferris Thomsen's ten will have matters pretty much its own way if it pays attention to the business at hand. The toughest contests (with Yale and Dartmouth) come the following two Saturdays.

The Philadelphia Lacrosse Club took the Tigers' measure here Saturday, jumping out to a 7-2 lead in the first period as Princeton encountered constant defensive problems. It was 7-4 at the half and a 13-10 final, for the Orange and Black's fourth consecutive defeat after the promising opening victory over Maryland.

Skey Good, But Who Else? Another fine pitching performance by southpaw Gerry Skey kept Princeton in the Eastern Baseball League race Saturday. Earlier in the week, four other pitchers had been blasted by Columbia, 14 to 2, but Skey got the Tigers back on track with a neat 5-1 triumph over Cornell at Ithaca.

Bill Bradley, who did not report for action until six weeks after practice had started because of his basketball activities, came up with a perfect day at bat against Cornell. He was three for three, including a double.

The 6-5 first baseman added a sacrifice fly, drove in three runs and scored a fourth. Rumors that Dick Colman is trying to persuade him to play tailback are admittedly unfounded.

Skey was clipped for nine Cornell hits but he stranded 10 runners while collecting nine strikeouts. The victory was his fourth without a loss, and he'll be ready for Harvard Saturday. Rutgers will be at University Field Friday at 4.

TIGER CREW LAST
Germans Win—Cup to Lions. Saturday's Childs Cup race was a two-part affair as thousands jammed the banks of Carnegie to watch the colorful proceedings. In the first half of the doubleheader, the strong, high-stroking German crew came from behind to defeat Columbia by a few feet of open water, covering the mile and three-quarters in 9:10.4.

The world champion Ratzeburg eight drew the outside lane, toughest of the four in view of the fairly stiff head wind, but lived up to advance billing with a fine perfarmance. When Columbia shot across the line ahead of Penn and Princeton, it marked the first time in 23 years that the Lions had won the Childs Cup.

Paired in the second portion of the race were the Quakers and the Tigers — almost two lengths back of Columbia and better than three behind the Germans. In last place from the time the four crews left the stake boats, Princeton closed on Penn at the finish but was still a third of a length back when everyone finally rested on his oars.

It was a tremendous day for Columbia, which also took both the first and second freshman races. Princeton's jayvees, without a victory this season in two tries, surprised by winning the junior varsity affair. The Tigers will be at Cambridge Saturday to row Harvard and M.I.T. for the Compton Cup, with Dartmouth invited as an added starter.

YALE TRACK TEAM HERE
Saturday in the Stadium. A 108-to-41 loser to Harvard at Cambridge Saturday, Princeton's track team will play host to Yale this weekend in Palmer Stadium. A freshman meet between the two colleges will be held in conjunction with the varsity affair, starting at 2 o'clock.

The colorful Heptagonal Games will be staged in the Stadium the following Saturday, involving the eight Ivy colleges plus Army and Navy. It's a constantly picturesque show that hasn't been seen here since 1955.

WIN ONE, LOSE ONE
PHS Follows Pattern. The Little Tigers are a consistent ball team. While they may have their ups and downs in fielding and hitting, they have consistently won all their odd-numbered contests and lost all the even-numbered ones.

Last week, they faithfully followed this pattern. They defeated arch-rival Trenton High, 8-4, in game number seven here on Thursday and then turned around and dropped a 6-4 decision to Notre Dame the next day. As a result, they remain at .500.

This week the Little Tigers will oppose Ewing High school in a return game here Friday afternoon at 3:45. They will meet Hunterdon Central away on Tuesday.

Friday's contest at Notre Dame was a ragged affair. Four PHS pitchers were unable to prevent Notre Dame from struggling to its second victory and thus remain undefeated. Tom Stemmle, previously 3-0 and the fourth pitcher, was charged with his first defeat.

After Notre Dame had scored once in the first inning, PHS broke through for two runs in the second. It should have tallied more. Captain Ray Britton led off with a homer, a towering shot into deep centerfield. Paul Walsted and Dave Shields followed with singles.

Then after Jack Britton had struck out for the ninth time in 10 at bats, Walsted scored on an error by the Gael third baseman. A potential rally lessened when Tom Scelerati, who had gotten on via the error, was a so thrown out at the plate, more the victim of inept signals than any Gael efficiency afield.

How long would $25,000 last?

It seems like a lot of money—more probably than you have ever had in cash at one time. But from the viewpoint of a widow with three young children, the question is not how much but how long. How long would it provide food, clothing, shelter and the other basic necessities of life? Would it bridge those important years when the children need their mother's full-time love and care?

Viewed from this standpoint, the $25,000 begins to shrink. Earning 4% and paid at the rate of $300 a month, it would last only 8 years; at the rate of $400 a month, just under 6 years.

This approach to financial security provides a practical measuring rod for life insurance. If you'd like to check how much income your life insurance would produce and for how long, just ask the Man from Manufacturers. He has a measuring device called a Security Graph that will help you view the life insurance you now own in a new light—no obligation of course.

Princeton was to regret its loose play. In the sixth, the home team broke a 3-3 tie when it scored three runs. An error by Shields made it easier for Notre Dame.

Paul Walsted opened the seventh and final frame for PHS auspiciously enough by cracking a triple to left. He later scored on a sacrifice fly but the next two batters were called out. And so true to form, was PHS.

THS Is Stopped. The day before the Little Tigers were highly impressive, as they defeated a strong Trenton High School nine, 8-4. Behind the excellent pitching of Tom Stemmle, PHS was in command all the way. Stemmle got credit for the win, his third without a defeat.

The eight runs was the biggest total scored in a single game by PHS this season. It raked Trenton pitchers for 10 hits, including doubles by Ken Ward, Paul Walsted and Jack Britton. Ward and first baseman Jimmy Case each rapped out two hits.

Trenton started as though it were going to make it a rout. The Tornadoes scored three times in the first inning with the help of two lead-off walks and an error by freshman Lou Balestrieri at third. Lou was temporarily replacing Tom Senlerati who had just returned the day before from the school's senior trip.

PHS retaliated with four runs in the second. Singles by Shields and Case and doubles by Ward and Britton highlighted the uprising. The victors then scored three more runs in the sixth to wrap it up. Jack Rosso, in relief of Stemmle, shut out Trenton in the last two innings.

EWING HERE FRIDAY

To Oppose PHS Runners. A strong Ewing track team will oppose Princeton High School here Friday afternoon, starting at 3:30.

Ewing has lost only to Trenton High and PHS coach Jerry Groninger is not optimistic over his team's chances. He has remarked that any time the opposition takes the sprints, PHS (2-3 in dual meet competion) is in trouble. Ewing, he reported, has a sprinter who can do 10.1 and 2:02 in the half.

On Wednesday, the annual Mercer County meet will be held in Trenton. According to Groninger, this is a misnomer. It is more of a Delaware Valley meet as upwards of 25 schools in the area are expected to compete.

Groninger indicated he will send only those performers whom he thinks stand a good chance of winning. Among those he plans to enter are Larry Mueller in the sprints, Bill Aiken and Tom Heiberger in the hurdles, Bruce Baxter in the quarter mile, and Al Spencer in the discus. Co-captain Jack Kelley and Jim Beachell will compete in the javelin and Roscoe Williams, co-captain Jim Norris and Hank Schmidt in the half-mile. Jay Gallagher, Peter Martinson or Schmidt will compete in the mile.

Relays Skipped. For the first time in several years, the Blue and White did not send a team to the Penn Relays last weekend. Groninger, who had planned to enter a quarter-mile relay team, reported he decided not to at the last moment. The return of one of his key runners from a senior class trip in a "washed out" condition prompted his decision.

In dual meet competion last week, PHS split. It defeated Cathedral, 101-16. Thursday for its second victory of the season. Two days later, it lost a 72-45 decision to Bridgewater Raritan.

Cathedral's defeat was not as humiliating as the score would indicate. For the newly-formed school, it was the first dual meet competition and Groninger reported it performed well under the circumstances. PHS swept all events with the exception of the 100-yard dash and the broad jump.

Bill Aiken and Al Spencer were double winners for PHS. Aiken captured the high hurdles and the pole vault; Spencer won the shot and discus events. Bruce Baxter finished ahead of the field in the quarter mile for the fourth time in five meets and Hank Schmidt took the 880 with a time of 2:10.4. A miler, Hank was competing in the event for the first time.

Against Bridgewater, PHS could garner only three firsts —Kelley in the javelin, Baxter in the quarter mile, and Schmidt in the mile. According to Groninger, PHS posted some of its best times and distances of the year, "but we still got beaten. When they took the sprints we were done," he continued.

Groninger has no illusions about the capabilities of his varsity squad. He was encouraged, however, with the report that the junior varsity squad, coached by Tom Murray, had won its first dual meet. On Thursday, the JV team shaded Grice Freshman, 59-58.

Vince Boccanfuso won the 100 and 220 events and Don Bennett captured the high and low hurdles plus a third in the high jump. Bob Grover captured the broad jump with a leap of 17' 10". "This must be close to the freshman record," said Groninger. "That is a very fine jump for a freshman."

HUN WINS PAIR

Behind Solid Pitching. With its pitching going the route in each instance, the Hun School baseball team won two games last week to remain undefeated. The twin victories upped Hun's record to 4-0.

Scott Page of Trenton captured his second win of the season Saturday when he hurled a nifty, five-hit, shutout against Admiral Farragut at Toms River. Earlier, the stocky sophomore tossed a one-hitter against George School, in Hun's second outing.

Hun won, 3-0. It scored the only run it needed in the first inning when Page tripled and came home on Guy Wirsig's sacrifice fly. The Red and Black added single runs in the third on a triple by Lonnie Kaplan and a single by Ted Isaacson and in the fifth on two errors and a single by co-captain Alex Langel.

Page was in complete control throughout. He did not walk a man and struck out six. His teammates backed him up in the field by playing errorless ball. "It was," said assistant coach John Talbot, "a very fine game."

Last Tuesday, with senior Mike Schnall on the mound, toppled Germantown, 8-2, in a Penn-Jersey League contest. It was another fine pitching performance by Red and Black hurlers as Schnall limited the Friends to five hits. He struck out 11 and walked only two.

Hun is now 3-0 in league play. The Penn-Jersey League was formed three years ago, but this marked the first year that baseball has been included as a competitive sport.

Indications are this may be a sweet season indeed for Hun coach Sandy Bing. It has been a long time since Hun could boast of a comparable pitching staff.

So strong is Hun on the mound that one of its first-line pitchers, Greg Ganong, has yet to start. Like Page, Ganong is only a sophomore. Two senior pitchers, Jack Rutherford and Jim Ail, are also still waiting to fire their first pitch.

Ganong's first assignment

Lawson and Holt Win

Jerome Lawson and Phil Holt were the respective winners in the GP-14 and Penguin classes Sunday as the Carnegie Sailing Club staged two four-race series.

Lawson totalled 16 points in the first set of races held for GP-14 sloops, winning twice and finishing second in the other two. He was followed by Chet Stroup, 14.8; Marsden Vanderwaart, 9.6; and Rommel Ambrose, 4.0.

Holt, assisted by his son, Bob, won three of the four races in the Penguin class to total 30.4 points. Following were Dexter Miller, 21.7; Dick Grace and Tom Huntington, both 16.1; Bob Wilson, 15.3; John Reeder, 12.6; Art Kelser, 8.0; and Art Mittnacht, 3.0.

will probably come Friday afternoon. On that date, Huu will strive to keep its string alive at the expense of Delbarton. The game will be played at Delbarton.

The Red and Black will stay on the road for a Wednesday afternoon game against Peddie. Game time is 2:30. The Hun jayvee team will play its second of four scheduled contests that afternoon.

HORSE SHOW COMING

At Pine Brae. Entries will close Saturday for the third annual Pine Brae Club Benefit Horse Show to be held at the club on Sunday, May 19, from 8:45 a.m.

The club grounds are on Route 518 near Blawenburg. This year, the Princeton First Aid and Rescue Squad, Inc., will be the beneficiaries of the show.

The event will feature classes in hunt seat equitation, large and small pony hunters; green and regular working hunters; lead line, driving pony, family and pleasure horse.

T. Hart Anderson, III is chairman of the event, working with chairmen Mrs. David O. Johnson, William Field, Mrs. Robert Strunsky, Mr. and Mrs. Gardner P. Allen, Jr., Major Bela Buttykay, Major Dezso Szilagyi, Mrs. S.A. Russo, Dr. William Cobs, Mrs. Theodore C. Slosson, Jr., Mrs. Herbert A. Elion, Mrs. Francis T. Chambers and Mrs. T. Hart Anderson, III.

Ringmasters will be Basil W. Stetson and Edward Gubb. Judges will be Thomas Hamilton of Philadelphia, John H. Fritz of South Orange and William G. Loeffler of Medford Lakes.

PREP TITLE WON

By Larrie Runners. Lawrenceville's track team won the American Championship quarter-mile relay prep school event at the Penn relays Saturday in Philadelphia. The Larries won the title with a 44.2 second performance.

The team, composed of Warren Moore, Lucius Evans, James Hahn and Roy Dix, easily defeated second place St. Benedict's. They will oppose St. Benedict's at home Saturday.

Following a 9-1 drubbing at the hands of Hamilton High School, the baseball team put up a stronger fight Saturday but still dropped its sixth game in seven contests to St. Benedict's. The visitors picked up two runs in the first and one each in the third and seventh innings to shut out the Larries, 4-0.

Bob Moore collected the only hit given up by pitcher Pete Peterson, a single in the second inning. Lawrenceville's next opponent was Delbarton on Wednesday followed by Ridgewood High Saturday.

The golfers advanced their win streak to four last week with a 5-2 victory over the Princeton freshmen and twin 7-0 shut outs of the Penn freshmen and the Haverford School Saturday. They will face Ridgewood High Saturday on the home links.

The tennis team recovered from a 6-3 loss to Choate to blank the Army Plebes, 9-0, at West Point Saturday. A slate of three matches this week will see the Red and Black oppose Peddie, Pingry and Ridgewood High.

This Saturday, the lacrosse team will be after its fourth straight win without a loss in a home contest with Hun. The Larries beat Hun last week by a 12-3 margin, following it up with a 9-3 victory over the Adelphi freshmen.

UP AND OVER: Young Kristen Demme practices for the great day when she will strive for a ribbon at the Pine Brae Club Benefit Horse Show on May 19. Her pony, Twinkle Toes, owned by Mrs. Malcolm Peyton, is a veteran who has seen many a practicing youngster over the hurdles.

BOWLING NOTES

Baldino Back In First. The topsy-turvy race in the Individual Classic League followed its usual course last week with Joe Baldino regaining first place from Mike Basile. Baldino, with a 58½-31½ record, holds a 1½ game lead over Basile and Guido Zinetti, who are tied for second.

Included in Baldino's series was the high game of the week, a 236, one pin better than Frank Maddalon's top effort. Zinetti and Bill Bathie were next in line, each with a 223, followed by Chip Ford and Basile, 212 each, and Wally Brown, 202.

In the Industrial League, the Reformers won one of three games to maintain its four-point margin over the Princeton Elks. The leaders have 46 points with the Elks and Para Lab tied at 42 each. Norman Luck captured scoring honors with a 217 performance; Val Ranallo with 202 and Mike Kopliner with a 200 were the only others to equal or surpass the 200 mark.

Aversano Construction lost a point from its lead as Cooper and Schaefer and Princeton Inn swept three games apiece in "A" League competition. Aversano has a total of 39 points to 36 each for the second place teams.

Val Ranallo was the scoring leader, winning a close battle with Ernie Hunt. Ranallo bowled a 210 to Hunt's 209. Bill Kiefer had a 202 and Don Lavering a 200.

With eight points separating the first nine teams in the ten-team "B" League, Edwards Engraving had a shaky hold on first place with 52 points. Ivy Inn was second with 50 points, followed by Maul Electric and Jugtown, 49 each; Campus Taxi, Sportsmen Number Two and Kase Kleaners, 48 apiece; Walker Gordon, 46; and Sportsmen Number One, 44. Balestrieri was in last place with 34 points.

In addition to Marzoni, the winning foursome included John P. Murray Jr., B.E. Bergesen Jr. and Richard B. Judge. Five teams were tied for second place with a net best ball of 64, five for third place at 65 and three for fourth place at 66.

REAL ESTATE

Only a site it is, unfortunately, but what a sight! High on the bank of a wide stream, overlooking the mill pond, upstream to a triple-arched stone bridge, downstream to a small island — the picture book setting is there. So is the old mill, sadly only a shell of its former self, but a fine source of priceless building materials: huge beams, wide floorboards, old stone. Almost 2 acres at an asking price of $13,500

If your taste runs to luxurious New York apartments but you want Princeton living, we have a compromise to offer in a beautiful small one-story house near town on the West side. Elegance galore! Marble fireplace, brocade-textured wall covering, French doors to enchanting terrace, handsome marbleized floor covering — all in perfect taste. 5 rooms, 2 baths are ample space for a couple, charming garden matches the house.

Rugged individualists or fanatics finicky about privacy, take note! This contemporary house in the woods (best area) has been reduced for a quick sale to $42,500. Pine boards & battens . . . flagstone & whitewashed brick . . . railroad ties & white gravel . . . glass walls & dogwood — get the feel of it? It's fun, well-built, easily expandable & the land alone is worth a good $20,000.

The owner of this fine-for-a-family house has bought in another area so there might be a price give in this one. If there is, it's a lot of house for the money. For example: liv. rm., family rm., din. rm., den, 4 bdrms., 2½ baths, basement playroom, large well-planted grounds for an asking price of $39,500? See what we mean?

CHECK TERMITE DAMAGE

Every year at this time, homeowners find winged insects that suddenly fly out and then drop their wings and crawl all around. These insects are termites and indicate that there are thousands of other termites still eating the house causing further destruction to the wood of the house. The cost of repairs far exceeds the cost of treatment and goes higher with delay.

Call us for free inspection of your home by experienced personnel.

Our work, which we guarantee for TEN years, is engineered to exceed specifications of existing regulations making us the leaders in the field.

CAN IT BE THE TREES?

Decidedly. Towering oaks and pines, majestic hickories, flowering dogwoods abound at Pine Knoll in Lawrence Township. The reason: this was a famous tree nursery and the trees will remain. The soil is rich, the terrain gently rolling, the elevation one of the highest in the state. Next door to the Green Acres Golf Course. An elementary school right on the grounds. A mile to Lawrenceville Shopping Center. Five minutes from Princeton and Trenton.

This perfect site attracted one of the finest custom home builders of Princeton. He is building these 33 homes with the quality and luxury features that are his trademark. Come out today. You'll stay!
